

Rise Board Expectations

● To connect, equip, and empower people to build a Church where women thrive ●

Each person serving on the Rise Board of Directors is asked to invest in the ministry in the following ways:

Spiritually

Commit to regularly pray for Rise. Boldly share your convictions about the vision God is giving you for our ministry. Pray regularly that God would increase your faith for what God is calling us to at Rise and that we would act in faith and wisdom. Serve as a spiritual encourager and challenger to Rise staff and volunteers, consistently seeking to speak grace and truth.

Relationally

Commit to sharing Rise with your friends and family. Use your social media and face-to-face interactions to share about Rise. Ask your network to join you in financially investing in Rise, attending a Rise event or sharing a meal to learn more about Rise. Serve as a consistent ambassador for Rise, especially within the Body of Christ. Board directors commit to sharing Rise's vision and resources with vocational ministers and lay leaders they know on a regular informal basis. Board directors also commit to actively help in the process of recruiting new board directors and volunteers, and to actively and intentionally build relationships with other board directors and volunteers.

With Your Gifts & Abilities

Commit to sharing your unique gifts, talents, abilities and characteristics with Rise. Discern how your professional training, vocation and other ministry experiences can benefit Rise. Take initiative with ideas of how you can further the mission of Rise.

With Your Time & Energy

Commit your time to be present at a monthly Board of Directors meeting via video chat and an annual planning retreat in person. Commit to promptly respond to phone calls, emails, Slack messages, etc. regarding Rise and its board. Each board director invests with the gift of stability by committing to serve a three-year term. Board Directors prioritize contributing to Rise events and programming as they occur.

Financially

Commit to giving of your money on a regular and recurring basis, whether it be monthly, quarterly or annually. Be open to special financial asks. Participate in regular Board of Directors fundraising initiatives.
